MOOT COURT—HONORABLE

The Moot Court of Cumberland University, Judge Sam B. Gilreath, presiding, is one of the most interesting and informative activities at Cumberland University. It is during these moot court sessions that senior law students learn procedure and gain experience in preparing and trying cases. Under the experienced guidance of Judge Gilreath, the moot court cases are conducted according to actual court room practice and procedure and afford invaluable experience in trial work. Freshmen and sophomore students participate in the trials as jurors.

SECOND ANNUAL MID-SOUTH

Ty Cobb

During the winter of 1953 the students and faculty of Cumberland University originated and sponsored the first Mid-South model U.N. Assembly. The enthusiastic response and the wide-spread publicity given to the first Mid-South U.N. Assembly demonstrated the merit of the idea and other colleges and universities were eager to sponsor and continue similar events. At the first Mid-South Assembly, held at Cumberland University, David Lipscomb College was selected as host and sponsor for the second annual Mid-South model U.N. Assembly to be held during the winter quarter of 1954.

At this second annual meeting Cumberland University was selected to represent Great Britain and in this role, according to the Nashville Tennessean, Cumberland University was named the most representative large nation in attendance. The British delegation from Cumberland was headed by James Chamberlain. Other delegates from Cumberland representing Great Britain included Ty Cobb, and Phillip Iha. In addition William Joseph of Pakistan and Kyu Dai Joe and Hee-Won Suhr of Korea attended from Cumberland.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

The University Bible Class is one of the oldest and most active organizations on the Cumberland campus and goes far towards filling the religious needs of the students of this historic institution.

This class, well attended by the students and their families, has been ably taught for approximately twenty years by Judge Gilreath. The curriculum offered in this class consists of a chronological history of the Bible.

In addition to regular Sunday meetings, the University Bible Class is highlighted by annual Fall and Spring picnics.
